Health Corp has announced a new £12 million investment programme aimed at improving access to community healthcare services across the UK.

The initiative will focus on expanding local care facilities, upgrading medical equipment, and increasing support for remote patient services. According to the company, the programme is part of a wider strategy to improve patient access while managing rising operational demands within the healthcare sector.

Health Corp stated that funding will be distributed across multiple regions over the next 18 months, with priority given to areas experiencing increased demand for primary and preventative care services.

The company also confirmed plans to recruit additional healthcare staff and invest further in digital systems designed to streamline appointment management and patient communication.

“Our goal is to strengthen local healthcare services while maintaining long term financial stability,” said Daniel Reeves, Director of Finance at Health Corp.

Health Corp expects the investment programme to support both operational growth and improved patient satisfaction throughout 2026 and beyond.
